1. The drawings are objected to because of the objections found in attached form PTO-948.

Correction is required. However, formal correction of the noted defect can be deferred until the application is allowed by the examiner.

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by McArthur, US Pat. No. 5,805,806.

McArthur discloses a method for launching a web browser application on a user's computer, comprising the steps of:

providing a browser application on the user's computer that is launchable in response to predetermined browser inputs being received by the user's computer (wireless keyboard inputs, col. 11, line 28-42);

providing a non-browser input that is not a portion of the set of predetermined browser inputs (col. 11, line 28-42);

correlating the non-browser input to simulate one or more of the predetermined browser inputs as a simulated browser input (col. 11, line 28-42); and launching the web browser on the user's computer with this simulated browser input to access information on a network (col. 11, line 28-42).

Art Unit: 2152

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 2-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over McArthur, US Pat. No. 5,805,806 in view of Call et al., US Pat. No. 5,913,210.

6. As to claims 2 and 3, McArthur teaches the invention substantially as claimed. McArthur teaches providing a first portion of the non-browser input that is generated local and external to the user's computer at the user's location (McArthur, col. 11, line 28-42).

However, McArthur does not explicitly teach providing a second portion of the non-browser input that is retrievable from a separate location than the first portion; and combining the first and second portions to provide the non-browser input.

Call teaches, in the analogous art of internet communications, a method of retrieving from a remote database a second portion and combines the first and second portions to access information on the network (Call, col. 1, lines 36 – 65 and col. 8, line 10 – col. 9, line 35).

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have incorporated a method of combining a first and second portions to generate browser input as taught by Call into the system of McArthur for the purpose of efficiently transferring customized product data to requesting clients over the internet.

Art Unit: 2152

7. As to claim 4, McArthur-Call teaches a method wherein the step of providing the second portion comprises retrieving the second portion for a location on the network by accessing the network from the user's computer to an intermediate location on the network; retrieving the second portion therefrom and transferring the retrieved second portion back to the user's computer for use by the step of combining (Call, col. 3, lines 58-60).

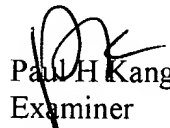

8. As to claim 5, McArthur-Call teaches providing reading a barcode (Call, col. 1, lines 36-50).
